PARIS:

In Belleville, a fantastic tourist-friendly neighborhood off the beaten track, participants will discover a different side of Paris and see amazing street art that drives forward Paris' contemporary creativity. Former industrial buildings have been converted into artists' studios and Belleville has become the center of Paris' urban art movement.

The guide is passionate about urban art and will share works by both French and foreign street artists, such as a giant wall fresco by Jerome Menager to the mosaic tile creations of the artist known as Space Invader. The tour is very relaxed, and you might even see artists working on new outdoor art during the two-hour walk. After the tour, you are free to continue exploring Paris on your own.
